a useful and informative book i would recommend it to students wanting a good introduction to the current issues in criminal justice and probation vista perspectives on probation the three chapters on treatment in practice are all excellent the treatment of sex offenders mentally disordered offenders and the treatment of drug misuse are all described within the social context of public concern ian gives a good overview of the sex offenders treatment program as operated in prisons and finkelhors model which is typically used by probation in working with offenders simon bass caring magazine treatment and rehabilitation have been central to the development of criminal justice policy and have played an important role in the development of criminology in recent years punishment and retribution have attracted more attention than rehabilitation but there has been a resurgence of interest in treatment and rehabilitation with indications that some things do work and an emphasis on evidence based policy making it is also the belief of many that a penal policy without an adequate treatment strategy is unjust and a denial of human rights in this book iain crow provides an accessible overview of the concepts of treatment and rehabilitation adopting a deliberately broad definition and considers the historical basis of treatment and its place within the penal system and british criminology the collapse of the rehabilitative ideal is examined along with what followed it and the development of the more recent what works movement the basis for evaluating what works is also subjected to critical examination in the second part the book looks at the part that particular agencies such as the probation service prison and non statutory organisations have played in the treatment of offenders in part three the issues raised by treatment and rehabilitation are illustrated with reference to three groups of offenders sexual offenders drug misusers and mentally disordered offenders the treatment and rehabilitation of offenders will be essential reading for students of criminology and criminal justice at both undergraduate and post graduate levels this beautifully illustrated book showcases the works of one of sri lanka s most influential architects anjalendran an ethnic tamil and visionary artist during the past 25 years of civil war in sri lanka anjalendran has stayed on creating architecture that has attracted interest across the entire indian subcontinent in anjalendran david robson explores this unique man and his uncommon vision anjalendran s buildings have a simple directness and although totally modern in spirit they acknowledge the rich design traditions of sri lanka whether working with ample budgets or at rock bottom cost like his sos children s village orphanages his work focuses not only on creative buildings but a la frank lloyd wright also their landscaping furniture and decoration just as interesting as the architecture is the process by which anjalendran works from home never employing more than four student assistants with no office no secretary no car and no cell phone he operates without a bank account and has never signed a contract with either a client or a builder with stunning color photographs plan details and behind the scenes insights anjalendran sheds light on the works of this exceptional man electronic monitoring em is a way of supervising offenders in the community whilst they are on bail serving a community sentence or after release from prison various technologies can be used including voice verification gps satellite tracking and most commonly the use of radio frequency to monitor house arrest it originated in the usa in the 1980s and has spread to over 30 countries since then this book explores the development of em in a number of countries to give some indication of the diverse ways it has been utilized and of the complex politics which surrounds its use a techno utopian impulse underpins the origins of em and has remained latent in its subsequent development elsewhere in the world despite recognition that it is less capable of effecting penal transformations than its champions have hoped this book devotes substantive chapters to the issues of privatisation evaluation offender perspectives and ethics whilst normatively more committed to the swedish model the book acknowledges that this may not represent the future of em whose untrammelled commercially driven development could have very alarming consequences for criminal justice both utopian and dystopian hopes have been invested in em but research on its impact is ambivalent and fragmented and em remains undertheorised empirically and ethically this book seeks to redress this by providing academics policy audiences and practitioners with the intellectual resources to understand and address the challenges which em poses
